

Welcome to Gas Industry Co's News Bulletin, a periodic advisory of new and current consultations, workstream developments, publications and presentations.

In this issue:

- Material for 17 May GTAC workshop.

Material for 17 May GTAC workshop.

As indicated in the News Bulletin released earlier in the week, First Gas has now released material on three workstreams: access products, pricing, balancing and allocation. The material analyses detailed design choices that need to be made in drafting the new code, and provides emerging views on the best way to make those design choices. Draft code provisions for access products, pricing, and balancing and allocation have also been released so as to give stakeholders a sense of how the emerging views could be translated into code form. The material can be downloaded here.

First Gas is providing a 6-week period for any comments on the material released today, with submissions due on 23 June 2017. During this period, First Gas will seek to have one-on-one meetings with stakeholders to help ensure a good understanding of the emerging views and to get as much input as possible to the new code. Consistent with the work plan presented at the February workshop, First Gas then plans to release a full draft of the new code in August 2017 and will schedule a further industry workshop around that time.

Stakeholders are reminded to register for the 17 May workshop – workshop details can be found below. Please note the change of venue. Gas Industry Co has been able to arrange a teleconferencing facility for the workshop but please note that, as it is untested, we cannot guarantee the quality. Accordingly, we encourage stakeholders to attend in person wherever possible.
