

NEWSbulletin

19 July 2019

Kia ora, and welcome to the Gas Industry Company's News Bulletin - a periodic advisory of new and current consultations, workstream developments, publications and presentations.

In this issue we cover:

- Industry Notifications page available.

Industry Notifications page available.

The Gas Industry Company (GIC) is pleased to provide a page on its website for stakeholders to post any industry notifications.

The Industry Notifications page was developed in response to requests from some stakeholders that an online tool be made available for the industry to voluntarily post notifications. The page is not intended to replace, and does not reflect any outcomes of, the Information Disclosure workstream which we are currently undertaking.

While the Industry Notifications page is hosted through the GIC website, any content or information submitted in it is the responsibility of submitting organisations and if further information on posted notifications is required, submitting parties should be contacted directly. All posted notifications will remain on the page, and additional content or updates relating to earlier notifications may be provided by submitting a new notification each time.

Users of this page will need to be registered members of the GIC website. You can register to become a member here.
